- How to safely expose and socialize your puppy
- How to start your show training
- How to give your new pup the best start for a successful career

Getting Out of Your Own Head for Dog Sports

Performance anxiety is a real thing. So real that it can be devastating to your performance, your connection and communication with your dog, your success and most important, your enjoyment of the sport. Of all the issues we help people with, this is one of the most common and sadly, the most overlooked.

There are proven techniques to improving your performance mindset. Using methods used by professional athletes, performers and mental health professionals Vicki will share ways to help with your ring nerves so you can be the handler your dog needs you to be!

VICKI RONCHETTE

Vicki Ronchette is the founder of Show Dog Prep School. She has been working with dogs professionally for over 30 years as a professional dog trainer and behavior consultant, pet groomer, pet sitter, dog walker and veterinary assistant. Vicki presents workshops and seminars all over the country on training show dogs.

Vicki is the author of Positive Training for Show Dogs – Building a Relationship for Success, From Shy to Showy – Help for Your Shy Show Dog, Ready? Set. SHOW! – A Handbook for Dog Shows and has written numerous dog training articles. Her articles have been published in the Chronicle of the Dog, The Whole Dog Journal, Best in Show Daily, Bay Woof and many other publications.

She is an AKC licensed Dachshund and Basset Hound Field Trial Judge and has bred and finished many Dachshund championships and field championships under the kennel name Braveheart. While she considers herself a trainer, not a professional handler, she has handled other people's dogs to their championships and other wins as well as coaching clients to championships and national rankings in the conformation ring. What Vicki truly enjoys is helping people train their show dogs and problem solve specific issues they may be having in the ring. She is the founder of the Positive Training for Show Dogs Facebook page and website.

Vicki is committed to training animals using positive, science based methods and continues to take courses and attend seminars and workshops from respected trainers, behaviorists and authors to continue her education and skill set.
