Breeding Management: Ovulation Timing, Insemination Methods, and More!

In this talk Dr. Rosenberg will go over stages of the canine estrous (heat) cycle and how ovulation timing is best accomplished for breeding management. She will also go over different insemination methods and how breeding strategies may vary depending on type of semen used. Questions will be addressed at the end of the talk.

Dr. Rosenberg is a Diplomate of the American College of Theriogenologists. She enjoys all aspects of canine and feline reproduction and is looking forward to offering advanced reproductive veterinary services to the community. Dr. Rosenberg spent the last year providing Theriogenology Services at a large specialty and emergency hospital in Central New Jersey before moving to the beautiful Lake Norman area to join Veterinary Specialties Hospital at the lake, where she currently sees Theriogenology and some General Practice patients.
